EAT BIG MEALS!
NO INDIGESTION
OR BAD STOMACH"Pape's Diapiesin" makes weak stomachs strong and healthy at once.Instantly stops sourness, gases, heartburn,
acidity, dyspepsia.

There would not be a case of indigestion or dyspepsia here if readers who are subject to stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Pape's Diapiesin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourness, acid stomach, indigestion, belching of gas and eructations of undigested food, water brash, acidity, nausea, heartburn, flatulence and many other bad symptoms, and besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your stomach is sour and full of gas or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living! Absolute relief from stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and besides, one case is sufficient to rid a whole family of such trouble.

Surly, harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapiesin, which will always, either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.—Adv.

FOR WOMENTo Preserve Health, Strength

BY PAULINE FURLONG

Next week Miss Furlong will outline exercises for both developing and reducing the hips, thighs, calves and ankles.

NO. 25—TRUNK RAISING.

In the past lessons I illustrated several varieties of the valuable trunk raising exercises which are so highly recommended for the reduction of the obese abdomen and in overcoming the most obstinate cases of constipation and indigestion. For beginners I advised the trunk raising exercise with the toes braced under a heavy piece of furniture, and afterward gave the ones for advanced pupils. All of these were performed with the hands clasped behind the neck, which position makes them very difficult to perform. In today's illustration I am showing an entirely different one, and it is performed with the arms outstretched. Take your position on a low stool and allow the fingers to reach the knees if possible. From this position raise the body slowly upward, and continue backward until the head and shoulders touch the floor in the rear. Bring the body to the original position and repeat the exercise at least ten times. Remember to lean the body well forward, if you are a sufferer from indigestion. Inhale when going backward and exhale when raising the trunk.

Trunk raising is the most valuable exercise for growing girls, as it strengthens the entire abdominal regions, develops the hips and rounds out the muscles of the legs.

There is no reason why young girls should not indulge in the same physical exercises and training as young men and boys, as the vital organs of the body in both sexes need the same attention. The most important ones for girls are those which affect, strengthen and develop the muscles around the waist and abdomen, because of the great muscular strength that is required of them when they grow older. Then too the corset and general method of dress have done much to make these muscles inert and inactive for many years, and this is another reason why girls should be trained early in life to practice a

MRS. A. E. asks: "Kindly tell me how I can get my hair black. It is now very dark brown and am anxious to have it black. I have tried your exercises and have lost five pounds in three weeks."

Nothing but hair dye will make the hair black and I do not advocate the use of it. If your hair is thick and healthy you are lucky and should be satisfied.

LANOLIN (Paterson, N. J.) writes: "I read your interesting lessons every evening, and as you are so good as to answer queries I take the liberty of writing you. You advised the use of the lanolin for the nose, and the druggist said it was not used for this purpose. Please tell me what to ask for and where I may get it. Will it hurt the eyes? What will cure a red nose?"

Ask for the imported toilet lanolin in tubes. You may get it from any large drug store in New York. It is harmless, but any foreign matter may temporarily irritate the eyes. The red nose comes from either indigestion, highly seasoned foods, tight lacing, high, tight collars or alcoholism. To remove it find the cause. Drink quantities of water, eat simple, easily digested foods for a time and you will soon see a vast improvement. Open air exercises and deep breathing will help. If the red nose comes from acidity, eat no sweets or starches and in the morning take one-half teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda in one-half glass of hot water. This will improve the appearance and also the digestion.

MRS. R. S. (Akron, O.) writes: "I am taking the medicine to develop the bust and it makes me sick. Please send me some other directions." If you are taking the one with the lactophosphate of lime and it nauseates you, stop taking it. Sometimes has the effect of curdling the food in the stomach. Take one-half teaspoonful of saw palmetto in a half glass of milk or water three times a day instead.

CROWN
by EMERSON HOUGHCHAPTER I.

"I SHOULD be slain, my wish and command is that my son be known as Michael the Second, and that he shall take from me the rule of this kingdom in his day, and the administration of these properties of the kingdom."

"There may be a long regency before my son shall reach the age of majority. There is another, older than himself, the son of my foster brother—pot of royal blood, but the bastard of a serving woman—Frederick, he is called. It may be within the purpose of my foster brother that that boy shall be brought up as the king, in case I, myself, should fail. Let that never happen! He is of no royal blood. He is not fit to rule. He is not your king. But signed hereto be the names and the seal unmistakable, done in my blood and his, of your future king, Michael the Second, my son. By this sign you shall know your ruler shall these presents come to you, well beloved."

"In the name of God, amen! Michael the Second."

Below this signature of Michael the Second, the measured voice of Count Frederick, "there is another signature—Michael the Second, he is called. There are two signatures to these scraps, and there are two seals."

"And here, gentlemen, beneath that other line of signature, which you have heard and seen, there is another, smaller, very small seal of a similar sort! It is the print of a human thumb—the thumb of a boy, of a boy—my son, then, and my son, recalls that scene vaguely. And here is the proof. Gentlemen, I recall now, it was my father made this mark; but it was his great hands which, by the one and the same dip of my thumb in the blood which he drew from my arm, and set it here below that name which he has written, 'Michael the Second.'"

"Gentlemen, who then is your king?"

Even yet they could not grasp the full significance of what they heard, and again the voice of Count Frederick resumed:

"Gentlemen," said he, "you have my proof. I submit my case to you and to the parliament. I submit myself to the law. As for that law, if it is given me to reign, always shall I support it, and always shall it be my ambition to give to the people that liberty, that justice which I myself have learned to love."

Still the silence, the tense electric silence which thus far had held them all. They stood thus for one moment, and then with one common impulse—as though the same thought had caught them at the same instant, each of these men—ladies and waiters, or men of purpose, and of principle, raised his hand. There rose in unison the old cry:

"LONG LIVE THE KING!"

Two were alone once more, two whom fate had so strangely cast together in such scenes.

He turned toward her now gravely and held out his hands. She placed here in his trembling.

"You shall never go!" said the quiet voice of the man who confronted her. "You shall never leave me now."

"But how? You are the king! It has been confirmed. The scraps were true—what we thought was true."

"I am the king! Yes, but how shall I rule alone? You shall sit beside me, for 'tis you have taught me how a king should rule."

He led her gently to the great throne of Gresham, which stood before them now. They bowed before it.

"I give you my faith, Katherine," said he, simply. "Do you love me?"

"I do," said she, so low he could scarce catch the words.

THE END.

"MISCHIEF MAKERS"
COMING TO OLYMPIC.

"The Mischief Makers" will be the attraction at the Olympic Theatre, beginning Monday afternoon. One of the novelties of the season, the company is an extended stage that reaches out over the first few rows of seats. Among the members of the organization are: Aloha Twine, sensational Hula-Hula dancers; Rich McAllister, Felix Rush, George Brennan, Ben Rumley, Margaret Shannon, Ruby Lusby and Mabel Clark. There is also a chorus of girls.

MRS. R. S. (Akron, O.) writes: "I am taking the medicine to develop the bust and it makes me sick. Please send me some other directions." Coming Week.

WILLIAM GILLETTE begins a short engagement at the Empire Theatre on Monday night in "Blackout House."

In his Empire season, Mr. Gillette will give some performances of "Secret Service," but the time allotted to both plays is necessarily short, because seasons have yet to be played at the Empire by John Drew and Maude Adams.

At William A. Brady's Forty-eighth Street Theatre on Tuesday evening George Broadhurst's latest play, "What Money Can't Buy," will be produced, with George Fawcett in the leading role. The members of the company are Anne Meredith, Edith Campbell Walker, Sydney Minnie, Mrs. Russ Whittall, William R. Mack, Frank Kennerly Cooper, William Lee, Calvin Thomas and Robert Galt. On the programme the parts are not designated by name. They appear in print as "The American," "The Secretary," "The King," "The Queen," "Mr. Fawcett," and "The Duke."

The postponed production of "A World of Wonders" at the Winter Garden will be made on Tuesday night.

"Alone at Last," a Viennese opera for which Franz Lehar has composed the music, will be presented at the Shubert Theatre on Wednesday night. The English version of the work of A. M. Willner and Robert Holzman has been made by Edgar Smith and Joseph Herbert. The opera is in three acts, with the scenes laid at Interlaken, Switzerland.

The second act is divided into three scenes, showing the game, the slopes and the summit of the Jungfrau. The story is concerned with a romantic episode in the life of a young Bavarian Baron, who is an enthusiastic mountain climber, and, as such, disguises himself as a guide, laying aside his title and assuming another name.

In his new production, he meets a beautiful American heiress, travelling with her parents. In the cast will be Marguerite Namara, known on the concert stage and later with the Boston Opera Company as Marguerite Namara-Toye; Jose Collins, John Charles Thomas, Barbara Schaeffer, a Philadelphia singer, who makes her professional debut in this opera; Roy Atwell, Harry Conner, Elizabeth Goodall, Edward Mulcahy, S. Paul Vernon, Marguerite Vinnet, Lillian Horn and Helen Meserole.

Oliver Morosco will present at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre to-night a comedy-drama by Louis K. Anspacher entitled "The Unchastened Woman." The selfish woman and the woman mindful of the wants and interests of others are the two most prominent characters in the play. The cast includes Emily Stevens, Christine Norman, Willette Kershaw, H. Reeves-Smith, Howard Short, Louis Bonnell, Isabel Richards and Jennie Lamont.

"A Full House" will be moved to the Standard Theatre.

The York Theatre will have "Twin Beds."

The Show Shop" will be seen at the Lexington Theatre.

The May Manton Fashions

No. 8821—(With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance.) Child's Dress, 2 to 6 Years.

Could a prettier little frock than this one be found? Yet it is the simplest thing in the world to make, for skirt and body portions are cut in one, shirred at the high waist line and again at the neck edge. It is a body lining which can be used or not, as the material renders desirable. In the picture the frock is made from embroidered flouncing with plain batiste for the sleeves, and the finished skirt and bodice are smoked in place of being simply gathered. Since smoking makes a notable feature of the fall fashions and is extremely ornamental in effect, while it represents very little labor, it is in every way desirable, but for the simpler frock it is necessary only to gather on the indicated lines. If plush material is used, the lower edge of the dress is designed to be finished with a hem and two tucks, and such a dress always looks like a child's dress. There are a great many available materials. For the very tiny children white is always preferred, and is pretty in children's dresses. There are a great many varieties of materials are available, and the dress is pretty or any other light weight wool crepe or of fine wool crepe, or indeed anything that can be shirred or smoked successfully. Among the novelties of the season are crepe wovens of silk with wool, one of these in a pretty child-like color and smoked just as the dress in here would be very charming.

For the 4-year size will be needed 2 1/2 yards of flouncing 14 inches wide, with 3/4 yard of plain material 36 inches wide, or 3/4 yard of material 27 inches wide, 3/4 yard 24 inches wide, 3/4 yard 24 inches wide, 3/4 yard 24 inches wide. The pattern No. 8821 is cut in sizes from 1 to 6 years.
